College Prep Evaluation: Brycten does a great job at controlling the flow on Offense, plays with great pace, and has a good basketball IQ. Looks his best when he extends his pressure on the ball and makes it tough on opposing guards to bring the ball up, but is not consistent enough on Defense to stand out yet as a 2-Way Player. Has the length and athleticism to be a much bigger factor on the Defensive end of the floor in the Spring. Offensively, he is skilled enough to play the PG position and has good shot mechanics and shoots the 3 well enough to play off the ball as well. Versatile Guard who can play 2 positions and has the size it takes to gain interest from College Coaches in the Spring. Brycten must do a better job when giving the ball up at moving with a purpose, and getting to his spots.

Becomes stagnant at times without the ball in his hands, which makes him much easier to guard so continue to progress at moving without the ball in your hands to keep pressure on the Defense. Coaches look hard at how well players move without the ball when recruiting Shooters, so continue to improve in this area moving forward. Too good of a shooter to not make the Defense work when guarding you, and showed the ability when ran off the 3pt line at getting in the paint and finishing at the Rim. One of the things that stands out, and will be a factor at what level you are Recruited at is your ability to Rebound the Ball from the Guard Position. You do a good job of getting in the mix on the Glass, and big enough to Rebound it at a high level. Guards that Avg. 7-9 rpg are an easier sell in the Spring when I make my hardest push (Motor Stat). Keep growing your game on the Glass, and set a goal to average 8 to 9 RPG next semester. Realistic vs the level of competition you are playing against. Excels in transition, just continue to work on the 3rd level of scoring behind closed doors which is your mid-range Game. No Evidence on Game Films that you are capable of pulling up off the bounce and knocking down Mid-Range shots in the HC or Transition. Stick to Your Strengths while getting extra work in on making plays and shots off the bounce. For now though, really lock in to being consistent with your on ball pressure and Rebounding while continuing to work on your game. These 2 areas are simply a choice, and you have the tools to do both at a much higher level. This will give us the best chance down the stretch to move you onto Scholarship Level Boards. Move without the ball and stay shot ready on Offense similar to the play at the 3:47 mark of the 3rd quarter vs Bradley. You are active on and play with good energy, and do a good job off the ball at anticipating passes and playing the passing lanes. Winning plays that don't show up on the stat sheet stand out to College Coaches when researching leads of mine, for example the Dead Ball possession at 3:43 4th

Quarter in the Nevada v. Bradley Game. Keep working on shooting off the Catch and when they go under Ball Screens as those are College Level Shots that translate to the next level. Similar to what happened at my Camp, there were moments where you 100% looked like a Scholarship Level Guard, and that was when you were competing at a high level without the ball in Your Hands. No more time to waste, the biggest question mark Coaches will be researching is on the Defensive end. That must be consistent in the last 8-10 Games of the Season when Coaches are researching leads and watching Games. 4:08 Mark in the 2nd Quarter vs Dierks demonstrates the ability, talent and athleticism is there so don't risk your future by not buying into that being your ticket. You have a good enough overall skill set & offensive Game, so keep working and upload Games in the Spring to share when you play big on both ends and get 8+ Rebounds. Those will 'Gain Interest'

College Ready Games in the Spring to Upload to Your Player Card:

Game #1 A Perfect Game for You to Upload would be: 22-25 Points (3 made 3s) 7 Rebounds (3 Offensive) and 4 off ball steals. When You Pressure the Ball consistently with the above stat line, those are the Games that will draw Interest from College Coaches.

Game #2: A Second Game to Select will be one Showcasing Your 2 Strengths that stand out: Shooting & Rebounding. Any Game where you go 5-8 from beyond the Arc and grab 9+ Rebounds will be a Great Game to upload. If 3 or 4 of those makes are off the Catch that is even better.

Brycten Harris | Keys in Increasing Your Recruitment

1. Get in extra work behind closed doors on shooting off the bounce, and shooting coming off ball screens. Catch in your spots and attack the Elbows or get in the paint and work on your pull-up Mid-Range Shot. Simulate shooting off Ball Screens like they go under or get into the heart of the D and shoot over the top situations. Play to your strengths while growing your game in this area.

2. You have moments when you look like a Scholarship Level On Ball Defender. Make those Moments last, by doing it throughout the Game. Don't save energy for Offense, get in better shape if that is what it takes but you still have time, and that must be consistent by Mid-February to turn Interest into an Offer.

3. Turn it up even more on the Glass. When you are pursuing Rebounds and Pressuring the Ball that is when you look like a College Level Recruit. Focus on growing in both those areas and you will be playing at a much higher level when it counts the most.

Spring Semester | Targeting the Right FIT

- Based on professional insight from experienced College Coaches who are involved with the Recruitment of Student-Athletes, we are able to Guide our Clients on Games that will move them up College Coaches Boards, not off of them.
 - Offensive fit | Faster pace on the offensive end that opens up the floor in the HC and has 4 Shooters at the 1-4 spots. Teams that set Ball Screens in transition and run quick hitters would also be a good fit for Brycten.
 - Defensive fit | Tough Man to Man Defensive Pressure where they switch the 1-3 spots. The foundation is there to stand out as a very good On Ball Defender, who can guard multiple positions. Don't wait till the final few Games to bring this to the table.

Brycten Harris Recruiting Game Plan (Spring 2024)

#1 Stat Goal: Avg. 8+ RPG (3 Offensive RPG) #2: Self Assess Yourself on D. Watch 2 full Games alone and focus on 2 things: your On Ball Pressure while keeping the opponent in front of You, and your Off Ball Defensive Energy and Effort. Don't look at the big picture, just laser focus on your consistency in those 2 Areas and start one play, one practice, one game at a time at becoming a true 2-Way Player before Mid-February. #3 Play to Your Highest Potential not to the Level of Competition. Prospects at smaller schools, that is always their biggest challenge is filling up stats sheets, but we need Games where You are Dominating that level of Comp on both ends of the floor. Keep working and remember this is your Guide and for your Eyes only.
